TNSC Announces Strategic Alliance with 3D Printing Corporation K.K.

Taiyo Nippon Sanso Corporation (“TNSC”) hereby announces that it has achieved strategic alliance with 3D Printing Corporation K.K. (“3DPC”) in Japan.

1. Overview on the Strategic Alliance

TNSC has been promoting and expanding 3D Printing business (Additive Manufacturing “AM”). TNSC has launched differentiated products and enhanced technical expertise thru partnership in the AM industry.

3DPC has founded in 2016 as an AM-related venture company in Japan and aim to build a new 3D Printing based supply chain including into various products to achieve its vision of revitalizing Japan manufacturing with 3D printing manufacturing technologies.

The strategic alliance enables not only TNSC to introduce 3DPC’s products and service into the broad network of TNSC but also to build business and technical synergy with our metal 3D printer and gas solution system.

Note (*): DFAM

DFAM is a general term of design concept and tools for making the most of AM technologies. e.g. optimization of design for light weighting parts
